AN ACT

Concerning the commercial intercourse between the United States and G. Britain and France and their dependencies, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That from and after the passage of this act, no British or French armed vessel shall be permitted to enter the harbors or waters under the jurisdiction of the United States; but every British and French armed vessel is hereby interdicted, except when they shall be forced in by distress, by the danger of the seas, or when charged with despatches or business from their government, or coming as a public packet for the conveyance of letters; in which cases as well as in all others, when they shall be permitted to enter, the commanding officer shall immediately report his vessel to the collector of the district, stating the object or causes of his entering the harbors or waters of the U. States: and shall take such position therein as shall be assigned him by such collector, and shall conform himself, his vessel and crew, to such regulations respecting health, repairs, supplies, stay, intercourse and departure as shall be signified to him by the said collector, under the authority and direction of the president of the U. States, and not conforming thereto, shall be required to depart from the U. States.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That all pacific intercourse with any interdicted foreign armed vessels, the officers or crew thereof, is hereby forbidden, and if any person shall afford any aid to such armed vessel, either in repairing her or in furnishing her, her officers or crew with supplies of any kind or in any manner whatsoever, or if any pilot shall assist in navigating the said armed vessel, contrary to this prohibition, unless for the purpose of carrying her beyond the limits and jurisdiction of the U. States, the person or persons so offending, shall be liable to be bound to their good behaviour and shall moreover forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding two thousand dollars, to be recovered upon indictment or information, in any court of competent jurisdiction; one moiety thereof to the treasury of the United States, and the other moiety to the person who shall give information and prosecute the same to effect: Provided, that if the prosecution shall be by a public officer the whole forfeiture shall accrue to the treasury of the U. States.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That all the penalties and forfeitures which may have been incurred under the act entitled "An act to interdict the commercial intercourse between the United States and G. Britain and France and their dependencies, and for other purposes," last mentioned, and also all the penalties and forfeitures which may have been incurred under the act laying an embargo on all ships and vessels in the ports and harbors of the United States, or any of the several acts supplementary thereto, or to enforce the same, or under the acts to interdict the commercial intercourse between the United States and France and their dependencies, and for other purposes, shall be recovered and distributed, and may be remitted in the manner provided by the said acts respectively, and in like manner as if the said acts had continued in full force and effect.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That in case either Great Britain or France shall, before the third day of March next, so revoke or modify her edicts as that they shall cease to violate the neutral commerce of the United States, which fact the president of the United States shall declare by proclamation, and if the other nation shall not within three months thereafter so revoke or modify her edicts in like manner, then the 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th and 18th sections of the act entitled "An act to interdict the commercial intercourse between the United States and Great Britain and France and their dependencies, and for other purposes," shall, from and after the expiration of three months from the date of the proclamation aforesaid be revived and have full force and effect, so far as relates to the dominions, colonies and dependencies, and to the articles the growth, produce or manufacture of the dominions, colonies and dependencies of the nation thus refusing or neglecting to revoke or modify her edicts in the manner aforesaid. And the restrictions imposed by this act shall, from the date of such proclamation, cease and be discontinued in relation to the nation revoking or modifying her decrees in the manner aforesaid.

J. B. VARNUM,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
JOHN GAILLARD,
President of the Senate, pro tem.

Letters upon French Influence.

No—I.

To the People of the United States.

IT is proposed fellow citizens in a course of very brief and very plain political letters, to unfold the history and display the character of that peculiar species of French Influence, which almost all unprejudiced persons of all parties are now prepared to acknowledge, has been exercised in some way or other, upon the affairs of our country, since the commencement of Th: Jefferson's administration. The letters will be short, that they may stand a chance for general republication in the independent papers; and they will be written in a simple style and unornamented, that they may be understood by every man, woman and child in the United States, who is at all in the habit of political reading.

He who addresses to you these letters, has been honoured with no inconsiderable portion of your attention upon former occasions. He has made the subject of politics, as an English writer says of poetry too much the business of his life. Too much for his own happiness as well as interest. He has been satired by his late democratic friends, because it was his fortune, or rather perhaps his misfortune, to rise, in the course of a very few years from one of the very lowest situations in rural life, to a seat in the councils of his country; a circumstance which he will not affect to remember without pleasure, and which cetainly he does remember with no little republican pride.—Pardon this egotism. It will be confined to the first letter, and the necessary purposes of explanation.

But the writer has changed his political party. Hence all this satire and much boisterious clamor. Some nation has a proverb intimating that the wise man changes his opinion often, the fool never. It will be admitted however, that frequent transitions in politics, from one party to another, ought to render an individual suspected.——If one change were not to be allowed, the democratic ranks in one part of the union would be very thin. But no man in public life ought to change his party, without giving to his constituents and the public the reasons which have governed his conduct. A mere sic volo, "I choose to change," should never be accepted in such a case.

Of the administration of the government of his country, the writer, while he acted as one of the representatives of the people, did not solicit either for himself or any other person, directly or indirectly a favor of any consequence whatever. The appointment of a young gentleman as a midshipman in the navy was the only thing that he requested alone and in that he was gratified. The appointment, of now and then a deputy postmaster, in some small country village, cannot be considered as the act of the executive administration. Probably no other democratic representative ever asked so little from the president, for from him nothing was asked.——The writer was disappointed by the administration, but he was disappointed in his capacity as a representative of the people, and on their behalf.——He was disappointed in finding that his political friends, who filled the different departments of the governments were not, as he had believed them to be, real republicans, and that they were not firm and independent patriots.

When conscience demanded a complete transition from one of the great political parties which divide the country, to the other, there was but one way for the writer to act, consistently with his own principles or rather, perhaps in this respect, notions, singular enough to be sure, but such as could not but govern him. It was to give the best evidence the nature of the case would admit that no interested or imbitious views, or any impure motives produced the change, by abandoning the high and honorable situation to which he had been three times called by great and rapidly increasing majorities of those who knew him best, and to which he knew he could again be called. He declared on this occasion, that he would never again be a candidate at any popular election whatever, and this promise he means to keep. He does not believe that any individual in a republican government, is under an obligation to devote more than a reasonable portion of his life to the public service. He has a right to judge for himself when it is prudent and proper to retire, unless, indeed, so general a disinclination to the labors of public life should pervade the country, as to occasion the wheels of the machine of government to stop! In the cases of invasion and rebellion it is very different. Even the life of every one is then the property of his country. In the present case the writer's perpetual retirement is more the result of choice and taste than of disappointment and disgust.

It was in the 'memorable and mournful' session of 1805—6, when both houses of congress were shut up in darkness for several weeks, that certain individuals of the democratic party became convinced that their leaders were not only despots in their hearts, but were devoted to the fear if not the interest of France. In the course of that session, Mr. Joseph Clay, the representative of Philadelphia, made a solemn public declaration that France had threatened war against the United States, and acknowledged that the threat had not been without its influence upon his mind! He was called to order, and not suffered to proceed. Mr. Clay, it is believed, has not even yet manifested a disposition to become other than a democrat in American politics. His veracity remains unimpeached. Upon that occasion he alluded to a document which is still concealed from the people, and which probably never will be published. The present writer could not justify himself in disclosing it. He recollects, indeed, that when it was first laid before congress, it produced a sensation as honorable to that body as much of its subsequent conduct had been disgraceful. Alas, it was but the sensation of the moment! The great political magician, Jefferson, waved his potent wand, and the spirit of genuine patriotism became extinct in the councils of America.

MORE OF THE NEW-YORK DEMOCRATIC MOB

From the N. York Commercial Advertiser.

THE RIOT.—It is with the deepest regret, that we have to announce to the public the disgraceful scenes which occurred in our city last evening. The particulars are principally detailed in the article below.—We have received a Communication signed "Public," giving the names of three individuals, who instigated the riot—one of whom, it is said, "gave three dollars for the drum, and placed the boys in marching columns with lighted candles." It is added that "this can be proved on oath." We are convinced, that men, who can be guilty of such unprincipled and base outrages upon the peace of the community and the feeling and safety of our citizens, ought to have their names held up to the detestation of the public. But the affair, we understand, is already in a train of judicial investigation. We deem it improper, therefore to publish any names, at present. When the investigation shall have closed, the offenders shall receive the notice they so richly deserve.

COMMUNICATION.

"Profligate and disgraceful Riot."—At ten o'clock last night, about four hundred persons, men and boys, mortified by defeat and inflamed with liquor, sallied forth from Marding's Den. They commenced their operations by giving three yells in "Republican square." They then marched down Broadway, to the house of Mr. Huggins, and with stones and brick-bats, broke nearly all the windows in the front of his house. Thence they proceeded to the office of Mr. Cheetham, editor of the Citizen, & broke windows. From the Citizen, they proceeded to the office of the Evening Post, where the same cowardly and disgraceful scenes were re-acted. Nearly all the front windows of Mr. Burnham's house are broken. Mrs. Burnham, with an infant in her arms narrowly escaped death, a brick from one of these savages having passed within three inches of her head. After leaving the office of the Evening Post they marched to the Public Advertiser and made the "Welkin ring" with screams and yells. From the Public Advertiser they proceeded to Mechanic Hall, and there, the Federalists having long before peaceably retired, they fearlessly battered the house, and broke one of the windows. From Mechanic-Hall they marched off to the dwelling house of Mr. Coleman, the editor of the Evening Post, and manfully broke his windows, Mr. Coleman, at the same time lying very ill in the house. From Mr. Coleman's they returned back to Marding's where they remained drinking and carousing until broad daylight.

Such, fellow-citizens was the conduct, last night, of a set of Ruffians, who arrogate to themselves the exclusive title of republicans and friends of the people! In the name of Heaven, what are we coming to? Is this city to be eternally disgraced, and the peace and lives of the inhabitants jeopardized by the annual riots of a desperate gang who bid defiance to the civil authority, and break through all forms of law, of order and propriety? The sanguinary mobs of Paris, in the bloodiest days of unhappy France, were scarcely more ferocious, than the crew who last night prowled about our city. Nor was it windows and houses only that experienced the effects of their fury—Men, known to be federalists were assaulted and knocked down in the streets. If these things are permitted with impunity, we are not safe even in our own dwellings. Freedom of opinion has hitherto been our boast; but what kind of freedom is that which subjects a man to insult and brutal violence for voting as his conscience dictates and the law permits.

It should be known, not only in this city but throughout the state, how these republicans conduct after experiencing defeat.—All men, who have at heart the peace and safety of the country, or who have any regard for propriety or dignity of character, should view with marked abhorrence and detestation the profligate and baneful acts of a set of men who are thus attempting to arm citizen against citizen; who are endeavoring by every means in their power to introduce anarchy, confusion and misrule—who, judging from their conduct, would, if in their power, make New-York a wigwam and the federal inhabitants victims of the tomahawk.

JACOBIN CONSISTENCY.

"In the unsuspecting moments of sleep" the banditti that paraded the streets, playing their own, (the rogue's march) to the annoyance of all peaceable inhabitants, visited my house, and after defaming, in a beastly manner, myself and family, with epithets only utterable by such cannibals, they proceeded to breaking my windows with bricks and stones. Ten dollars will be paid any offender or offenders, if he or they will call and pick up the pieces, one of which struck Mrs. Huggins a violent blow in the stomach, to the great amusement of one of my neighbors, who is a man with red hair, and very much like a soldier, because he carries his fire locks. Any gentleman of the law will confer a singular favor, by informing me whether any follower in such a mob, is not as liable to prosecution, as a ring-leader or adviser in such nefarious practices, although even supported by political weathercock whirly-gigs of DESTRUCTION. More of this anon.

Alexandria Daily Gazette.

TUESDAY, MAY 8.

MARRIED, on Thursday last, by the Rev. Mr. Lowe, ROBERT I. TAYLOR, Esq of this place, to Miss ELIZA BERRY, daughter of Mr. Lawrence Berry of King George county, Virginia.

The Diana from Lisbon has brought over a few of the real Spanish Merino sheep—We understand that there are a ram and ewe for the late President of the United States, (Thomas Jefferson, Esq.) a ram and ewe for the present President, and the balance to the care of James H. Hooe, Esq. being twelve in number.

COMMUNICATION.—That which is subjoined, is quoted from the "History of the Adventures of GIL BLASS." —If any commentaries are requisite, you must make them yourself. Its applicability may strike you, but I would not for the world, (being myself a Democrat of the "first water,") say a word in allusion to the delapidations of the "exclusive" Republican Patriots, which were published in your Gazette a few days since.

A. B. C.

Extract.——"Thou wilt lead a fine life here, my lad, for I do not think thee so great a blockhead as to scruple to live with robbers. For after all, does not the generality of mankind rob as effectually as we do? Yes, Gil Blas, every man desires to appropriate to himself his neigbour's goods, if he can.

"This sentiment is universal amongst the human species; the only difference is in the manner of carrying it into execution. Conquerors, for example, seize on the dominions of their neighbours. People of fashion borrow money with an intent of never returning it. Bankers, treasurers, dealers in exchange, clerks and merchants, whether in wholesale or retail, are not very liable to scruples."

The freedom and purity of the RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE is a principle interwoven with the very basis of our political system, and as essential to the preservation of that system in its original form, as is the soul to the existence of the body. It is to be regretted therefore that the prostitution of this right is becoming so frequent and alarming throughout the union, as to excite the most serious apprehension that the elective franchise, once so justly considered the pride of Americans, and the palladium of their liberties, may at no very distant day be converted into a political engine to promote the ambitious projects of knaves and usurers.

I shall be happy to find that my fears on this subject are groundless—but I am sorry that facts leave but too many reasons to believe that they will be realized, unless the rapid strides which they are at present making in this road towards our national ruin, should be speedily and effectually retarded. Foreigners, not yet naturalized or whose naturalization has been prematurely and fraudulently procured, men without proper qualifications in point of property, transient persons who may be here to day and gone to-morrow, and youths whose years do not as yet entitle them to the privileges of freemen, are all crowded forward to the polls upon the day of an election; and if one of them can manage to slip in a vote, undetected, it is hailed by the favored party as a lucky circumstance. On the eve of an election, the most shameless lies are put in circulation (and sometimes sworn to!) in order to gull the ignorant out of their votes by awakening their fears or alarming their prejudices: and if this is not sufficient, means still more detestable are frequently resorted to. Those who are wicked enough, are bribed, and those whose stubborn virtue would disdain such contamination are, many of them, either induced by the personal flatteries or frightened by the personal threats of some one of their superiors, to vote as he chooses to direct. Even the horrors of a jail are sometimes threatened by an unprincipled creditor to a helpless debtor, in order to compel the latter to give up his political rights to the control of the former.

So common and so little odious have some of these practices become, that nothing is more usual in common parlance than to hear it said that A or B can command a certain number of votes; in other words, that he can make his tenants or his dependants vote as he pleases. And are such things to be tolerated in a land of freemen? Rather let the right of suffrage perish entirely and at once, than thus permit it to be made an instrument in the hands of the knavish and the ambitious to enslave and to control the honest and the undesigning.

To JOHN M. FORBES, Esq.
Consul of the United States at Hamburg, &c.

SIR,

AT a very general and respectable meeting of American citizens interested in the event of the late and future measures of the Danish government in relation to foreign property at present under arrest in Schleswic and Holstein, convened for the purpose of taking into consideration the present situation of their property and the best means to effect an early release of the same, as also, the measures recently taken by yourself in regard to the deception and illegitimate trade lately attempted to be carried on at Tonningen under cover of the American flag. We, a committee appointed to convey to you the sense of your countrymen now here, on the steps you have taken for the security of their property, enclose you a copy of two resolutions passed on this occasion.

Though we are sensible, that in the discharge of your public duties, you do not require individual protection or support, yet we cannot but believe that to be assured of our unanimous approbation of your conduct on this occasion will be as agreeable to yourself as it is gratifying to us to make the communication.

We cannot conclude without expressing our sincere hope that the severe but necessary measure you have taken may serve to open the eyes of those of our fellow citizens (if such in reality they are) who, tempted and ensnared by interested foreigners or allured by the fallacious prospect of temporary gain, equally blind to their true welfare and forgetful of the duty they owe themselves and their country, have unlawfully prostituted their own honor and morality, brought suspicion and disgrace on the flag of the United States, and placed in jeopardy millions of the bona fide property of their countrymen.

With sentiments of high respect, we have the honor to be your obedient servants.

Hamburg, Dec. 17, 1809.

AMERICAN CONSULATE,
December 18, 1809.

GENTLEMEN,

I HAVE received the letter you did me the honor to address me under 17th inst. covering certain resolutions of my fellow citizens now here, approving my late measures at Tonningen in relation to certain vessels under the flag of the United States.

Called upon, in the most critical circumstances, to take a measure susceptible of every important political consequences as well as involving the fate of an immense amount of property, acting entirely on my own weak judgment and not supported by a personal reputation equal to the magnitude of the responsibility, it is extremely gratifying to me to receive the approbation of those respectable and intelligent men who represent the large property immediately at stake.

I never doubted for a moment the correctness of the principle on which I acted, nor did I doubt that the government and citizens of the U. States would duly appreciate the motives, even should they have occasion to deplore the efects of the measure; but when I found myself placed under the necessity of sacrificing a large amount of foreign property and perhaps even increasing the danger in which that of my fellow citizens was placed, I confess that my repugnance on the one hand and my still greater solicitude on the other rendered my situation indescribably distressing: to have taken such a step precipitately would have been little honorable to my sensibility on judgment.

On the subject of the second resolution inviting me to repair to Copenhagen to make representations to his Danish majesty relative to the American property now under sequestration, flattered as I should be by the success of such a mission, yet considering its great responsility, the uncertainty of the event and the difficulties of the voyage, I should most diffidently undertake it. I hope, however, that no one interested will suppose me capable of putting any personal consideration in competition with a sincere desire to promote the general good. It might be prudent to delay for a few days, in which time some decisive and favorable measure may take place, or we may learn the shape which our affairs are likely to assume and thus be enabled to take our measures in conformity thereto.

I have the honor to be,
With sentiments of esteem,
Your faithful friend & serv't
(Signed) JOHN M. FORBES.

(CIRCULAR.)
Copenhagen, Jan. 18, 1810.

SIR,

Having come to this city at the request of my fellow citizens interested in the property under arrest in Schleswic and Holstein to endeavor to obtain its liberation, I am happy to say that I have so far succeeded, that the reports of the royal commissioners at Tonningen and Glucksradt have been approved by the king and orders given to raise the arrest in those places.—The Altona commissioners have been also instructed to release such property as shall be clearly proved to be neutral, and in all doubtful cases they are to demand of the magistrates at the places of importation the proofs on which the property was originally admitted, and to send forward the answers of the magistrates together with all documents presented to them, to the royal chancery in this city, who will decide, and I am assured that, in cases of doubt, much confidence will be given to my representation. I have also obtained his majesty's promise that the buoys shall be re-established in the river Eyder, by which the dangers of that difficult navigation will be much lessened.

This will prove interesting to our merchants provided we have the good fortune to preserve the trade to Tonningen another season, but, in the present times a few weeks produce so many changes that it is a folly to attempt to counsel distant speculations. By a new order of his majesty the king of Denmark, all colonial produce is prohibited. The produce of the U. States, in our own ships will alone be received. I have not seen the royal order but am confident of the authenticity of my information.

Every circumstance shews that throughout Europe our commerce will be reduced to the carrying and vending our own produce. My establishments at Tonningen & Frederickstadt and my connexion at Hamburg will be continued the next year, and I shall be happy to merit the preference in the transaction of real American business only, in those places. Should new events force our commerce to resort to this city or to any of the ports of the Baltic, I shall go to meet it.

I am respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
JOHN M. FORBES.

P. S. Since writing the foregoing I have seen the circular from the chamber of customs, conraing the royal order alluded to above, by which I find that the exportation of cotton is forbidden. I shall immediately remonstrate on the subject, and have very little doubt of my success.

GENUINE MEDICINES.

THE LATE RICHARD LEE, JR. OF N. YORK.

As prepared from the original receipt in possession of the subscriber, his widow, by whom they are prepared and without whose signature none are genuine.

Obstinate Coughs, Colds, Asthmas, &c.

Are immediately relieved and speedily cured by the use of

HAMILTON'S ELIXER FOR COUGHS.

DEAR bought experience has taught thousands that oily and heated medicines, joined with strong opiates or sleepy drugs, repeated doses of which flatter and deceive the patient for the present, by procuring momentary ease; experience, I say, has taught thousands, that the common opiates and balsamics, as they are called, finally aggravate every disorder of the breast and lungs, in their most distressing symptoms: that they load the stomach and impair the digestion, inflame the whole system, increase the difficulty of breathing and excite fever. But the qualities of this valuable discovery are evinced by perfectly opposite effects. A single trial will prove, that it restores the determination of the fluids to the surface of the body, and brings on the common healthful perspiration—that it dislodges and evacuates the tough viscid phlegm or mucus, strengthens the weakened vessels of the lungs, sheathes the acrimonious humor which irritates them, and finally discharges it. Thus striking at the root of the disorder, the symptoms are of course effectually and permanently conquered, the reverse of common medicines, which weaken the constitution and give strength to the disorder for the sake of moderating for the present some of its painful effects.

To parents who have children afflicted with the whooping cough, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder to which children are liable. The elixir is so perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Selected Recommendations.

Being desirous to make public for the good of others, the excellent quality of Hamilton's elixir, prepared by the late Mr. Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from i; which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast received from a fall, my health grew bad, my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had suddenly to rise up in my bed with all the horrors of immediate suffocation.—Add so these a constant pain in my breast, and a cough, a great loss of strength & flesh, and you may conceive that my symptoms evidently indicated an approaching consumption. The advice of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was called in, but without giving me any relief. Another physician who knew me and the circumstances of my case, advised me to give Hamilton's Elixir a trial, saying he had used it in his practice and always found it to do much good. A bottle was procured from Mr. Birch's, and I found relief before I had taken half of it. I continued to use it & was soon strong to attend to business. On taking cold, some of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose or two of the Elixir.

George Benner, jun.

no. 11. Budd street, Philadelphia.

Mrs. H. Lee, New York.

Mr. Abijah Hendy, Bridge street, Baltimore, was cured by one bottle of Hamilton's Elixir, of a very complicated disorder, occasioned by a very severe cold caught several months ago. He breathed with the greatest difficulty, and was often thrown into wobbening sweats when he attempted to walk any distance, and his voice would frequently fail in such a degree that he could only attempt to whisper. He has been upwards of six weeks without a return of his complaints; and desires to give his public testimony in favor of this invaluable medicine.

Itch Cured,

By once using Lee's Sovereign Ointment. The proprietor informs those persons and families who are suffering under this disease, against the infection of which no person is safe, that if this ointment is used at night on going to bed it never fails to perform a cure by the following morning, as thousands who have used it during the last ten years can testify. The peculiar excellencies of this infallible remedy for the itch, above every other, are the certainty of the cure by a single application; the ingredients being so innocent as to be applied with perfect safety to the tenderest infant; and its being not only free from any offensive smell, but equally agreeable with the pleasantest pomatum.

Dr. Hamilton's Grand Restorative.

Which the inventor confidently recommends as an invaluable medecine for the speedy relief, and permanent cure of various complaints which result from imprudent pleasures, juvenile indiscretions, residence in climates unfavorable to the constitution, the immoderate use of tea, frequent intoxication, or any destructive intemperance, the unskilfull or frequent use of mercury, the diseases peculiar to females at a certain period of life, bad layings in, &c.

HAMILTON'S
CELEBRATED WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Among the symptoms attending Worms are, disagreeable breath, especially in the morning—bad and corrupt gums—itching in the nose, and about the seat—convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes a privation of speech—irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious—purging with slimy and fœtid stools—vomiting—large and hard belly—pains and sickness at the stomach—pains in the head and thighs, with lowness of spirits—slow fever; with small and irregular pulse—a dry cough—excessive thirst—sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and rushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

Hahn's true and Genuine German Corn Plaister,

An infallible remedy for Corns; speedily removing them root and branch, without giving pain.
